KENTUCKY Democrats throughout the trying scenes of the last few months have conducted themselves in an orderly manner and with all due respect to the law and the tribunals of justice. They have been sustained in their position and claims at every step. Let them now continue on this high plane.

The commencement of Flemingsburg's High School comes off this evening. A class of fifteen will receive diplomas, the graduates being Misses Rose Harbeson, Frances Wilson, Katherine Metcalfe, Lyda Jones, Ella Mae Dearing; Messrs. Vera C. Carpenter, Ohas. P. Duley, Fed H. Evans, Marvin N. Evans, Morris N. Evans, Wm. Hussey, Parker A. Hord, C. D. Meadows, Joshua B. Lukins, David Howe.

The suit of Mrs. Pence, of Carlisle, against the L. and N. Railway Co., for $5,000 damages resulted in a verdict for the defendant. Mrs. Pence purchased a ticket in Carlisle for New Forest. When Conductor Groves passed down the aisle he failed to take up the ticket, and after the train had passed New Forest she told him that was where she wanted to get off. He let her off at Myall Station and she had to walk back part of the way, her friends meeting her midway between Myall and New Forest. Judge Buckler, Mrs. Pence's attorney, pleaded in his petition and claimed in his statement of the case to the jury that Myall Station was in a "wild, uninhabited portion of the State."

MR. JOHN ALTMAYER, of this office, and Mr. Claude Tolle are engaged in collecting data and photographs for the forthcoming Midsummer Magazine Number of the Pictorial Press, which they announce will be handsomer this year than anything heretofore attempted. It is to be printed on heavy plate paper, contained within handsome enameled colored covers, and in addition to the descriptive letterpress the work will comprise photographic reproductions of prominent people and views of fine residences and business blocks in Maysville. A few choice pictures of points of interest in the county are also desired, and those who have "cute" babies, nice homes, orchards or fine stock they want shown can arrange for their insertion in the publication by paying part of the cost of having engravings made. Anyone interested can obtain further information by addressing the "Pictorial Press," Maysville Ky., inclosing photo for an estimate and stamp for reply.

GOV. BECKHAM

Promises a Liberal and Broad-Minded Administration of the Affairs of State.

Will Aim to Restore Law and Order and a Due Respect for Tribunals of Justice.

Governor Beckham has given out the following statement:

"I am, of course, very much gratified at the decision of the Supreme Court. I never had any doubt as to what the decision would be because it seemed that the proposition of law before them was so clear that no court could take a different view from that of our Court of Appeals in this State and the Supreme Court. It has been a great victory. It is a triumph of law and order over lawlessness and desperation, a victory which Mr. Goebel and myself won in November at the polls by a majority of the legal votes cast in that election, a victory which was ratified by the Representatives of this State in their General Assembly and which was last declared legal and binding by the highest court in the land.

"We have been patient and long suffering, but I believe the result justifies our course. It has been my aim throughout the contest, and I know that it would have been the policy of my illustrious predecessor, to carry on this fight in an orderly and legal way and in a way that would save our beloved State from bloodshed and civil strife. We have succeeded in that policy and I believe that good people throughout the State regardless of party affiliations will endorse our conduct.

"As the Governor of the Commonwealth I promise not only to be the representative of a great party, but the Chief Executive of a great State. I shall be as liberal and as broad-minded as possible in administering the affairs of the State, and my highest ambition shall be to restore a perfect respect for law and order throughout the bounds of the Commonwealth.

"This decision also brings us face to face with another great State campaign, and I desire to say that while the Republican party has sought to make its battle cry a plea for 'civil liberty', that on our side we intend to make an earnest and aggressive campaign, with our battle cry as a plea for the protection of human life and a protest against the methods of a government in the affairs of our State. We shall make no farcical outcry about 'civil liberty', but we go to the good people of Kentucky and ask them that they support us in our efforts to establish law and order in this State and a due respect for the tribunals of justice. The condition in our State capital for the last few months has been a warning and a menace to the good people of Kentucky, and I expect to give my efforts here and elsewhere in the State to establishing a condition in which the life of every citizen is amply protected. I hope the time is at hand when the Judges in our courts and other high officials in the State will not need a guard to protect them from assassination.

"Civil liberty can best be obtained by a respect for the law and the courts. The Democrats throughout this long and trying contest have shown without exception that respect. We hope to give the State of Kentucky civil liberty, and we will give them an ample and sufficient protection for human life, which for several months past has been a more urgent need than any other reform. No government can exist where its people do not show respect to and abide by the properly constituted tribunals. Throughout this contest that has been the policy of the Democratic party, and that will continue to be its policy. We have no apologies to make.

"Our course has been one of which we should be proud, and we shall go into this campaign earnestly and aggressively and resenting the hypocritical cries for civil liberty. The good people of this State who want civil liberty, who want an administration of the laws that afford protection to all alike, and, above all, which affords protection to human life, will find that the Democratic party will do more than any other to give them these blessings. The people of Kentucky, I believe the best people on earth, are as law abiding and as conservative as the people of any other State in the Union. The unfortunate conditions for the past six months have brought upon us much censure and abuse, but it shall be my aim as Governor of the State, so far as I have power, to establish a condition of respect for the law and protection of property and human life to as great an extent as it exists in any other State."
